

FOREWORD

In response to Congress' passage of the Hate Crime Statistics Act of 1990 and subsequent acts that amended the directive, the FBI Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) Program collects and publishes data on crimes motivated by racial, religious, ethnicity/national-origin, sexual-orientation, and disability bias. In 2001, 9,730 bias-motivated incidents were voluntarily reported by law enforcement agencies nationwide.

From the first year that national hate crime data were published in 1992 until 2000, incidents motivated by racial bias comprised the largest portion of reported hate crime incidents followed by incidents motivated by a religious bias and those motivated by bias against sexual orientation. The fewest number of hate crime incidents resulted from ethnicity or national-origin bias, until the addition of the disability bias in 1997, which then became the lowest portion of reported hate crime incidents.

That distribution changed in 2001, presumably as a result of the heinous incidents that occurred on September 11. For many offenders, the preformed negative opinion, or bias, was directed toward ethnicity/national origin. Consistent with past data, by bias type, law enforcement reported that most incidents in 2001 were motivated by bias against race. However, crime incidents motivated by bias against ethnicity/national origin were the second most frequently reported bias in 2001, more than doubling the number of incidents, offenses, victims, and known offenders from 2000 data. Additionally, the anti-other ethnicity/national origin category quadrupled in incidents, offenses, victims, and known offenders.

Another noticeable increase in 2001 was among religious-bias incidents. Anti-Islamic religion incidents were previously the second least reported, but in 2001, they became the second highest reported among religious-bias incidents (anti-Jewish religion incidents were the highest), growing by more than 1,600 percent over the 2000 volume. In 2001, reported data showed there were 481 incidents made up of 546 offenses having 554 victims of crimes motivated by bias toward the Islamic religion.

Hate crimes touch not only the individual victim, but they also affect the entire group associated with the particular bias motivation. Unfair and inaccurate stereotyping can make victims of all who share the same race, religion, ethnicity or national origin, sexual orientation, or disability. Law enforcement's commitment to hate crime awareness and collecting and reporting data surrounding bias-motivated offenses underscores the notion that valid information is essential in developing tools with which to combat these pernicious crimes.

The national Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) Program would like to hear from you.

The staff at the national UCR Program are continuously striving to improve our publications. We would appreciate it if the primary user of this publication would complete the evaluation form at the end of this book and either mail it to us at the indicated address or fax it to 304-625-5394.

INTRODUCTION

Background

With the passage of the Hate Crime Statistics Act of 1990, Congress mandated the collection of information about crimes motivated by a bias against a person's race, religion, sexual orientation, and/or ethnicity/national origin. Under the commission of the Attorney General and with the aid of several local and state law enforcement agencies already investigating and collecting information about hate crimes, the FBI's Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) Program developed a data collection system to comply with the Congressional mandate. Hate Crime Statistics, 1990: A Resource Book was the first publication that made available the hate crime data reported by 11 individual states that had collected hate crime data under state authority during 1990 and that were willing to participate. After the national UCR Program implemented a uniform method of data collection, the 1992 edition of Hate Crime Statistics premiered the data reported by participating law enforcement agencies across the Nation.

The Hate Crime Statistics Act was amended with the enactment of the Violent Crime and Law Enforcement Act of 1994 to include bias against persons with disabilities. The FBI began collecting data for this additional bias motivation on January 1, 1997. Another amendment followed in July 1996 when the Church Arson Prevention Act was signed into law, removing the sunset clause (a clause requiring a review of the rationale for continuing the act) from the original statute and permanently extending the data collection mandate. As a result, the FBI has made hate crime data collection a permanent part of the UCR Program and continues to encourage the voluntary participation of each law enforcement agency.

Collection Design

The goal of the Hate Crime Statistics Act and its subsequent amendments is to capture information about the type of bias serving as the motivating factor of a hate crime, the nature of the offense, and the number and type of victim(s) and offender(s). As they identified the criteria that distinguish hate crimes from other offenses, those involved in the developmental phase of the Hate Crime Data Collection Program recognized that hate crimes are not separate, distinct crimes; instead, they are traditional offenses motivated by the offender's bias. An offender, for example, may damage or vandalize property because of his/her bias against the owner's (victim's) race, religion, sexual orientation, ethnicity/national origin, or disability. Therefore, rather than create new crime categories, Program developers felt that collecting additional information about crimes already being reported to the UCR Program would fulfill the directives addressed in the Hate Crime Statistics Act as amended.

Because motivation is subjective, it is difficult to know with certainty whether a crime was the result of the offender's bias. Law enforcement investigation is critical to the determination process because it must reveal sufficient evidence as to whether the offender's actions were motivated, in whole or in part, by bias. For this reason, the success of the Program rests with the law enforcement officers who determine that a bias motivation does indeed exist.

The International Association of Chiefs of Police, the National Sheriffs' Association, the former UCR Data Providers' Advisory Policy Board (now part of the Criminal Justice Information Services Advisory Policy Board), the International Association of Directors of Law Enforcement Standards and Training, and the Association of State Uniform Crime Reporting Programs have endorsed the Hate Crime Data Collection Program. Without their support and law enforcement's voluntary data collection, any effort toward the success of the Program would be futile.

Participation

In 2001, nearly 17,000 law enforcement agencies nationwide reported data to the national UCR Program. Of that total, 11,987 agencies in 49 states and the District of Columbia submitted reports to the Hate Crime Data Collection Program. The following table shows the number of participating agencies represented within each population group and the U.S. population covered in each group. Of the agencies participating in this Program, most sent their data to their respective state UCR Programs (see Appendix) that, in turn, forwarded the state's information to the national Program. Participating agencies in states without state UCR Programs sent their data directly to the FBI. Collectively, these agencies represented nearly 241.8 million people in the United States or 85 percent of the country's population. Although not a scientifically selected sample, these data offer perspectives on the general nature of hate crime occurrences.

The law enforcement community has long recognized that valid information is central to developing effective measures to deal with crime; the same is true for bias-motivated crime. Through the collection of local hate crime statistics, law enforcement agencies have the ability to heighten the awareness and the understanding of bias-motivated crimes both locally and nationwide.

METHODOLOGY

Hate crime data collected by the FBI include criminal offenses committed against persons, property, or society that are motivated, in whole or in part, by the offender's bias against a race, religion, disability, sexual-orientation, or ethnicity/national-origin. In addition to the offense classification and bias identification, a hate crime report provides information about each hate crime incident including the type and number of victims, the location of the incident, the number of suspected offenders, and the suspected offender's race.

Hate crimes are not separate, distinct crimes but rather traditional offenses motivated by the offender's bias. It is, therefore, unnecessary for law enforcement to create a new crime category in an effort to capture hate crime data. To the contrary, hate crime data are collected by capturing additional information about offenses already being reported.

Data Reporting

Hate crime data are reported both by agencies submitting data through the Summary Reporting System (SRS) and by those submitting data via the National Incident-Based Reporting System (NIBRS). Agencies using the SRS and some agencies reporting via NIBRS use two standard forms on which to collect and report data: the Hate Crime Incident Report and the Quarterly Hate Crime Report. These forms supply the national UCR Program with hate crime data for 11 offenses—the 8 Index crimes (murder and nonnegligent manslaughter, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, larceny-theft, motor vehicle theft, and arson) plus simple assault, intimidation, and destruction/damage/vandalism.

During a calendar quarter, law enforcement agencies submit a Hate Crime Incident Report for each bias-motivated incident. At the end of each calendar quarter, reporting agencies submit a Quarterly Hate Crime Report, which includes the total number of incidents reported for the quarter as well as deletes any previously reported incidents that were later determined to be invalid (not bias-motivated). Law enforcement agencies using this form submit Quarterly Hate Crime Reports even though they may be reporting zero hate crime incidents.

Most agencies reporting data to the national UCR Program via NIBRS use a data element within their reporting software that indicates a hate crime. However, since NIBRS is a comprehensive system that is incident-based, considerably more information about the hate crime incident can be reported.

Regardless of the reporting format the agency follows, SRS or NIBRS, an important distinction must be made when law enforcement report a hate crime. The mere fact that the offender is biased against the victim's race, religion, disability, sexual orientation, and/or ethnicity/national origin does not mean that a hate crime was invariably involved. Rather, the offender's criminal act must have been motivated, in whole or in part, by his/her bias. Because motivation is subjective, it is difficult to know with certainty whether a crime was the result of the offender's bias. Therefore, law enforcement reports an incident as a hate crime only if the investigation revealed sufficient, objective facts to lead a reasonable and prudent person to conclude that the offender's actions were motivated, in whole or in part, by bias against a racial, religious, disability, ethnicity/national-origin, or sexual-orientation group.

(A comprehensive discussion on the SRS and NIBRS can be found in the Uniform Crime Reporting Handbook and the Uniform Crime Reporting Handbook, NIBRS edition.)

Data Collection

A hate crime incident can involve more than one offense, victim, and/or offender. For counting purposes, one offense is counted for each victim of a crime against a person, and one offense is counted for each distinct incident of a crime against property and a crime against society (NIBRS only), regardless of the number of victims. The total number of victims in a given incident is the sum of victims associated with each offense that took place within the incident.

Agencies reporting data on the two hate crime forms collect data on 11 offense categories: Murder and nonnegligent manslaughter, forcible rape, aggravated assault, simple assault, and intimidation are classified as crimes against persons. Robbery, burglary, larceny-theft, motor vehicle theft, arson, and destruction/damage/vandalism of property are classified as crimes against property.

For agencies submitting data via the NIBRS, the data element indicating bias motivation applies to all 46 Group “A” Offenses, which include the previously mentioned 11 offense categories. The remaining 35 Group “A” Offenses (not listed) are reported in this publication as other or as crimes against society, whichever is appropriate. (See the Uniform Crime Reporting Handbook, NIBRS edition, for a discussion of all 46 Group “A” Offenses.)

Data Publication

To be included in this publication, law enforcement agencies must have submitted data for at least 1 month of the calendar year. The published data, therefore, do not necessarily represent reports from each participating agency for 12 months or 4 quarters. Section II of this publication furnishes individual state and agency information, including the number of quarters for which the agency reported data to the national Program.

Notes to data users:

1. When examining the data contained in this report, it is helpful to note that the first line of the title of each table presents in boldface type that table’s unit of count, i.e., incident, offense, victim, known offender.
2. It is incumbent upon all data users to become as well educated as possible about how to understand and quantify the nature and extent of hate crime in the United States and in any of the almost 12,000 agencies contributing data to this publication. Valid assessments are possible only with careful study and analysis of the various unique conditions affecting each local law enforcement jurisdiction. Until data users examine all the variables that affect crime in a town, city, county, state, region, or college or university, they can make no meaningful comparisons. (A more thorough discussion of the factors that affect crime can be found in Crime in the United States, in the chapter entitled Crime Factors.)

SECTION I

HATE CRIME STATISTICS, 2001

Incidents and Offenses

A total of 11,987 law enforcement agencies in 49 states and the District of Columbia collectively reported 9,730 bias-motivated incidents during 2001. The majority of these were single-bias incidents, meaning that all offenses involved in the incident resulted from the same bias motivation. Multiple-bias incidents are those in which two or more offenses were committed as a result of two or more bias motivations. For 2001, participating agencies reported 9,721 single-bias and 9 multiple-bias incidents.

An examination of data from the single-bias incidents showed that 44.9 percent were motivated by racial prejudice, 21.6 percent were driven by a bias toward an ethnicity/national origin, 18.8 percent were motivated by religious intolerance, 14.3 percent by sexual-orientation bias, and 0.4 percent by disability bias. (Based on Table 1.)

The Hate Crime Data Collection Program codes all of the offenses that occur within hate crime incidents as belonging to one of three scoring categories—crimes against persons, crimes against property, or crimes against society. Of the 11,451 offenses reported, 67.8 percent were crimes against persons, 31.5 percent were crimes against property, and the remaining 0.7 percent were crimes against society. Within these offense types, intimidation was the most frequently reported of the crimes against persons at 55.9 percent. Destruction/damage/vandalism accounted for 83.7 percent of reported crimes against property. (Based on Table 2.)

A review of the total offenses (11,451) demonstrated that intimidation was the most frequently reported hate crime, accounting for 37.9 percent of the total. Destruction/damage/vandalism made up 26.4 percent; simple assault, 18.8 percent; aggravated assault, 10.8 percent. The remaining offenses accounted for 6.1 percent of the total. (Based on Table 2.)

Of the 11,430 offenses that occurred within the single-bias incidents, 46.3 percent were motivated by racial bias. Within those 5,290 offenses, investigators determined that 66.7 percent resulted from anti-black bias, 19.5 percent resulted from anti-white bias, 6.6 percent reflected an anti-Asian or anti-Pacific Islander bias, 5.3 percent resulted from bias directed against groups comprised of individuals of varying races (anti-multiracial group), and 1.8 percent were anti-American Indian or anti-Alaskan Native bias. (Based on Table 1.)

Among the 2,004 offenses motivated by religious prejudice (17.5 percent of the single-bias offense total), anti-Jewish bias made up 55.7 percent; anti-Islamic bias accounted for 27.2 percent; anti-Catholic bias, 1.9 percent; and anti-Protestant bias, 1.8 percent. Bias against other religious groups accounted for 10.5 percent. The remaining percent of offenses were motivated by a bias against groups of individuals of varying religious beliefs and anti-atheism/anti-agnosticism/etc. bias.

Sexual-orientation bias (1,592 offenses) made up 13.9 percent of all offenses within the single-bias incidents. Within this bias category, anti-male homosexual bias motivated 69.3 percent of offenses, anti-female homosexual bias accounted for 15.4 percent, and bias against homosexuals as a group, 13.0 percent. Anti-heterosexual and anti-bisexual bias accounted for the remainder. (Based on Table 1.)

An analysis of the data from those offenses resulting from bias against a particular ethnicity or national origin showed that anti-Hispanic bias accounted for 30.1 percent of the total. The remaining percent (69.9) of offenses were classified as bias against various other ethnicities or national origins. (Based on Table 1.)

Thirty-seven of the total offenses associated with single-bias incidents were motivated by anti-disability bias of which 25 were attributed to an anti-mental disability bias. (Based on Table 1.)

A review of the data by offense type and bias motivation revealed that there were 10 hate-motivated murders during 2001. Of these, 5 were the result of an ethnicity or national-origin bias, 4 were driven by racism, and 1 was attributed to a sexual-orientation bias. Law enforcement attributed 2 forcible rapes to racial prejudice, 1 to sexual-orientation bias, and 1 to an anti-ethnicity or national-origin bias. Concerning the offense of robbery, investigators determined that 66 robberies were racially motivated and 48 were motivated by a bias against a sexual orientation. Thirty-four arson offenses were traced to the offenders' religious intolerance, 26 to racial prejudice, and 22 to bias against an ethnicity or national origin. (See Table 4.)

Victims

The term victim throughout this publication refers to a person, business, institution, or society as a whole, unless otherwise specified.

In 2001, there were 12,020 victims of 11,451 hate crime offenses. Victims of racial bias accounted for 46.2 percent of the 11,998 victims of single-bias hate crime incidents. Victims of ethnicity or national-origin bias accounted for 22.0 percent, victims of religious bias comprised 17.7 percent, victims of sexual-orientation bias made up 13.9 percent, and victims of disability bias 0.3 percent. There were 22 victims of multiple-bias incidents in 2001. (Based on Table 1.)

An examination of data from single-bias incidents showed that of the 5,545 victims of racial bias, 66.7 percent were victims of anti-black bias, 19.2 percent of anti-white bias, 6.5 percent anti-Asian or anti-Pacific Islander bias, 1.8 percent anti-American Indian or anti-Alaskan Native bias, and 5.7 percent were victims of bias directed at groups composed of individuals of different races. (Based on Table 1.)

A breakdown of the 2,118 victims of hate crimes motivated by religious bias showed that the majority of victims were Jewish, 56.5 percent. Anti-Islamic bias accounted for 26.2 percent of victims of hate crimes motivated by religious bias, anti-Catholic bias accounted for 1.9 percent, anti-Protestant 1.7 percent, and anti-atheism or anti-agnosticism 0.2 percent. Biases directed at members of other religious groups and those directed at groups made up of individuals from various religious faiths accounted for 11.1 percent and 2.5 percent of the victims, respectively. (Based on Table 1.)

Male homosexuals accounted for the majority of the 1,664 victims of sexual-orientation bias, 69.2 percent. Anti-female homosexual bias accounted for 15.4 percent, anti-homosexual bias 13.0 percent, antiheterosexual bias 1.3 percent, and anti-bisexual bias 1.0 percent. (Based on Table 1.)

Victims of anti-Hispanic bias accounted for 30.8 percent of the total 2,634 victims of anti-ethnicity or anti-national origin bias hate crimes. The remaining 69.2 percent of victims were of other ethnicities or national origins. (Based on Table 1.)

In 2001, within single-bias incidents, there were 37 victims of disability bias. The majority of those, 67.6 percent, were victims of anti-mental disability bias, and 32.4 percent were victims of anti-physical disability bias. (Based on Table 1.)

A review of the data concerning the types of victims showed that of the 12,020 hate crime victims, 7,768 victims or 64.6 percent were of crimes against persons in 2001. Of the 7,768 victims of crimes against persons, 55.9 percent were victims of intimidation. (Based on Table 2.) Nearly 35 percent (34.7) of the 12,020 total were victims of crimes against property. Within this category, 83.4 percent were victims of destruction, damage, or vandalism. (Based on Table 2.) Among the 3,607 crimes against property offenses, 52.5 percent were directed at individuals, and 10.4 percent were directed at business or financial institutions. Property hate crimes directed against religious organizations accounted for 7.6 percent; against society or the public, 6.2 percent; and at government, 5.9 percent. The remainder were directed toward other, unknown, or multiple victim types. (Based on Table 6.)

Additionally, agencies contributing NIBRS data reported 76 hate crime offenses against society in 2001. These offenses accounted for 0.6 percent of the total victims. (Based on Table 2.)

Offenders

As defined by the Hate Crime Data Collection Program, the term known offender does not imply that the suspect's identity is known, but that an attribute of the suspect is identified which distinguishes him or her from an unknown offender. In the hate crime program, the offender's suspected race is the identifying attribute.

In 2001, law enforcement agencies reported a total of 9,239 known offenders associated with 9,730 bias-motivated incidents. (See Table 1.) Of these known offenders, 65.5 percent were white, 20.4 percent were black, 0.9 percent were Asian/Pacific Islander, and 0.6 percent were American Indian/Alaskan Native. Groups of individuals representing various races accounted for 4.4 percent of all known offenders. The remaining 8.2 percent of offenders were of unknown race. (See Table 9.)

The 11,451 reported hate crime offenses in 2001 were committed by 9,239 known offenders; 349 of these offenders were involved in more than one offense. (Based on Table 2.) A review of the 7,649 known offenders involved in hate crimes against persons demonstrated that most (40.6 percent) committed the offense of intimidation. There were 3,607 hate crime offenses committed against property in 2001. Of the 1,851 known offenders for crimes against property, 59.9 percent were involved in destruction, damage, or vandalism. (See Table 2.)

Locations

Residences and homes were the scenes of 30.9 percent of the total 9,730 hate crime incidents in 2001. Incidents perpetrated on highways, roads, alleys, or streets accounted for 18.3 percent of hate crime incidents, and 10.1 percent occurred at schools or colleges. Other or unknown locations accounted for 9.6 percent of incidents.

Of the 4,367 incidents motivated by racial bias in 2001, 32.3 percent occurred at residences or homes; 21.7 percent on highways, roads, alleys, or streets; and 11.1 percent at schools or colleges. A breakdown of the total incidents by bias motivation showed that the majority of the 1,828 incidents motivated by religious bias (28.8 percent) occurred at residences or homes; 17.0 percent were committed in religious settings such as churches, synagogues, or temples; and 11.2 percent took place in schools or colleges. The data indicated that of the 1,393 hate crime incidents motivated by sexual-orientation bias, 33.4 percent of the incidents occurred at residences or homes; 22.6 percent, on highways, roads, alleys, or streets; and 11.7 percent, at schools or colleges. Of the 2,098 hate crime incidents based on an ethnicity/national-origin bias, 27.8 percent occurred at residences or homes; 17.0 percent occurred on highways, roads, alleys, or streets; and 7.7 percent took place at parking lots or garages. In regard to the 35 hate crime offenses motivated by a physical or mental disability bias, 42.9 percent occurred at residences or homes; 14.3 percent took place on highways, roads, alleys, or streets; and 8.6 percent happened at schools or colleges. (See Table 10.)

<sup>1</sup>Because hate crime submissions have been updated, data in this table may differ from those published in Crime in the United States, 2001.

<sup>2</sup>The actual number of incidents is 9,730. However, the column figures will not add to the total because incidents may include more than one offense type, and

<sup>3</sup>The term victim may refer to a person, business, institution, or society as a whole.

<sup>4</sup>The term known offender does not imply that the identity of the suspect is known, but only that the race of the suspect has been identified, distinguishing him/her from an unknown offender. The actual number of known offenders is 9,239. However, the column figures will not add to the total because some offenders are responsible for more than one offense, and they are, therefore, counted more than once in this table.

<sup>1</sup>A multiple-bias incident is a hate crime in which two or more offense types were committed as a result of two or more bias motivations.

SECTION II

JURISDICTIONAL HATE CRIME STATISTICS, 2001

In 2001, the number of agencies that provided 1 to 12 months of data to the FBI's Hate Crime Data Collection Program was 11,987. Of those agencies, 2,106 submitted incident reports with a total of 9,730 hate crime incidents reported. Of the total participating agencies, 17.6 percent reported that at least one hate crime occurred in their jurisdiction; the remaining 82.4 percent reported that no hate crime instances occurred.

The data presented in Section II provide a state and agency breakdown of bias-motivated offenses. Table 12 supplies individual state totals for the number of participating agencies, the populations represented, the number of agencies submitting reports of hate crime incidents, and the number of incidents reported. Table 13 includes those agencies that submitted one or more hate crime incidents, and Table 14 lists those agencies that submitted reports indicating no instances of hate crimes occurred. Both Tables 13 and 14 present data by state, with each state subdivided by agencies within cities, universities and colleges, suburban counties, rural counties, state police agencies, and other agencies when applicable. In an effort to provide data users with more complete information, Tables 13 and 14 also provide the number of quarters for which each agency contributed data to the national hate crime program.

Many variables such as economic conditions, population density, and modes of transportation, which are not considered in this publication, can affect the volume and type of crime from place to place. For this reason and because these figures do not necessarily represent 12 months of data for every agency listed, data users are cautioned against making direct comparisons among agencies. (For a more complete discussion of this subject refer to Crime Factors found in Crime in the United States, 2001. This publication can be found on the Internet at www.fbi.gov.)
